

A SPY IN THE FBI

In the clandestine world of espionage, spies are only as good as the secrets they steal... and keep. Someone is selling Top Secret information to the Russians, putting FBI and CIA sources in imminent danger. As US agents furiously work to root out the mole, no one suspects that the traitor is one of their own.